HAY COLLAPSES IN DOCK, BUT SAILS FOR EUROPE

Steamer Cedric Signals Back He Is Better—Exhaustion of Nerves, Following Grip and Strain of Work, the Cause.

New York, March 20.—Broken down in health, John Hay, secretary of state, sailed Saturday on the Cedric of the White Star line to seek rest and recreation. That Mr. Hay is in need of both was apparent to all who saw him on the dock. So weak was he than his son, Clarence Hay, supported him while mounting the stairway to the second floor of the pier, and after the top was reached the secretary sat on a bag of freight until a chair could be brought. He was taken on board the ship in a wheel chair.

"How is Secretary Hay?" was signalled to the Cedric from Sandy Hook as she passed out.

"Much better," was the answer flashed back by the international code of signal flags.

Waiting at the dock to receive Mr. and Mrs. Hay were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., their son-in-law and daughter, and Henry Adams of Washington, a close personal friend of Mr. Hay, and Henry White, the newly appointed ambassador to Italy. Mr. Adams accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hay on the trip, the party having been booked as "Henry Adams and party." Efforts had been made in Washington to make the secretary's departure as secret as possible. The names of Mr. and Mrs. Hay were not on the Cedric passenger list.

While resting on an armchair on the dock, Mr. Hay signed several papers which were brought to him by a government official. He went to his suite leaning upon the arms of his son and Mr. Adams.

Mr. Hay, it is understood, has been suffering from a severe attack of grip, though friends of his said he was simply tired out and needed rest. Mr. Hay walked up the steps of the pier against the advice of those with him. The secretary, it is understood, has not been strong since a severe attack of grip he had during the winter. A recent recurrence of the malady necessitated his taking a change.

The ship's surgeon said Mr. Hay's condition was of the sort incident to the period of convalescence after the grip, and that the sea trip would undoubtedly do him good.

It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Hay to be away about six weeks, and most of their time on the other side will be passed in cruising about on the Mediterranean.

THE SENATE ADJOURNS

The Santo Domingo Protocol Fails.

APPOINTEES CONFIRMED.

Illinois, West Virginia and Wisconsin Offices Cause Some Delay—

A Half-Hour of Farewells.

Washington, March 20.—The special session of the Senate was at 3:30 Saturday adjourned without day. All of the nominations sent in were confirmed with the exception of five, the most important of which was that of Judge James Wickersham, to succeed himself as judge of the district court in Alaska. Several unimportant treaties were ratified, but beyond these matters no legislative business was transacted. Most of the session was devoted to the Santo Domingo question and the consideration of a treaty under which it was proposed that the United States should take over the control of the financial affairs of the Dominican government in order to pay its indebtedness. The Democratic opposition prevented the ratification of this treaty.

There was practically no discussion of the Dominican question in executive session of the Senate Saturday. Before the doors were closed an effort was made to secure the adoption of a resolution offered by Senator Teller, requesting the president to send to the Senate correspondence leading up to the negotiation of the Dominican treaty. Consideration of the resolution was interrupted by a motion made by Senator Cullum that the Senate go into executive session. The doors were closed at 1:00 p. m., and the Senate at once took up certain nominations and proceeded to confirm them. Practically all the business of this character was completed before 2 p. m., and a committee, consisting of Senators Cullum and McCreary, was appointed to wait on the president and inform him that the Senate was ready to adjourn. No motion had been made to reconvene the treaty and it was allowed to remain in the calendar. It will be the pending business in executive session when the Senate next meets, whether it be in special or regular session.

The Senate was continued in special session three days because of an investigation made by order of the president in relation to certain judgeships in Illinois and a controversy over the nomination for internal revenue collector in West Virginia. These matters were disposed of soon after the doors were closed. While the committee to wait on the president was performing its duties Senator Spooner called up the White House and took up with the president the appointment of a district attorney in Wisconsin. The president agreed to make the appointment and there was another delay of nearly an hour while the commission was being filled out and hurried to the Senate. This matter disposed of, the Senate adjourned sine die, and the senators passed a pleasant half-hour or more in saying their farewells.

R. R. FIGHT ABOVE SENATE.

La Follette May Remain Governor of Wisconsin.

Washington, March 20.—Governor La Follette's unique act in declining to come to Washington on March 4 to qualify as United States Senator is still discussed as a mystery, but the latest news from the Wisconsin governor seems likely to produce even more wonderment.

It is said that he contemplates declining the Senatorship, remaining governor, and appointing one of his state leaders to take his seat in the Senate. His object in doing this would be twofold. One result would be to show that if the presence of La Follette in Wisconsin is needed to fight the railroads to a finish he stands ready to be there at the end.

TAFT IN 1908.

Nomination for Presidency Is Predicted by Ex-Congressman Thayer.

Washington, March 20.—John R. Thayer of Massachusetts, the Democrat who retired from Congress on March 4, in an interview predicts the nomination to the presidency by the Republicans in 1908, of William H. Taft, of Ohio, secretary of war.

"Taft's chances for the nomination are growing," said Mr. Thayer. "The administration is pushing him. I believe Roosevelt is for him and Roosevelt promises to be a big factor in the next election. The nominee must have the approval of Mr. Roosevelt."

STURGIS BILL SIGNED.

Passage of Measure Believed to Presage Change in Prohib. Law.

Portland, Me., March 18.—The Sturgis bill was signed by Gov. Cobb at Augusta this afternoon and immediately became a law.

Agitation throughout the state caused by the passage of the bill, which provides for the appointment of a commission to see that the prohibitory law is enforced when, in the discretion of the governor, it becomes necessary to interfere, had greatly increased today. In nearly every county where the law had not been rigidly enforced the sale of intoxicants has now been stopped, in response to instructions from the various sheriffs.

Opinions are freely expressed that as a result of the Sturgis bill and the strict enforcement of the prohibitory law, there is a possibility of the re-submission to the people of the prohibitory law.

Petitions were circulated today, and freely signed, urging the city govern-

Brattleboro Masons Have Made a Start Towards It.

Brattleboro, March 20.—A good start has been made on the foundation of a fund for a Masonic temple. Following the lead of Brattleboro lodge, which appropriated $100 for this purpose, Columbia lodge, Fort Dummer chapter and Beasant commandery have each voted an equal sum. It is expected that some special contributions will be made to the fund and that money obtained through entertainments and other sources may be added to it in addition to the appropriations each year from the several bodies. It is probable that a Masonic temple association will be formed in which all of the interests will be merged.

KANSAS OIL FIGHT IS ON

Great Convention of Producers at Independence.

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED.

Governor Hoch Promises Assistance—No Cessation of Fight Against Standard Until Victory Is Attained.

Independence, Kan., March 20.—When the convention of oil producers of Kansas was called to order here Saturday to map out its fight against the Standard Oil company, there were 3,000 persons present. The organization effected early in the winter at Topeka to fight for legislation was made permanent. Many speeches were delivered Saturday. While the Standard Oil company was denounced, the producers did not lose sight of the fact that in order to win their fight they must act. Among the delegates were several leading state legislators and many prominent business men of Kansas. Gov. Hoch was the center of attention. Ida M. Tarbell was also received enthusiastically. Among those present were former Gov. Burke of North Dakota and Frank S. Monnet of Ohio.

Gov. Hoch made an address in which he said: "This is not a war upon the Standard Oil company. It is a war upon its methods. It is not an attack upon this great corporation. It is an attack upon its commercial policies. It is not an attempt to drive the Standard Oil company out of this state. It is an attempt to compel it to be decent. This is not a socialistic movement, but the very reverse. Thoroughly convinced by long study and much thought that the socialistic idea of government in private business is radically wrong, I have entertained with caution any and every proposition tending toward governmental absorption of business enterprises which can be more wisely left to individual effort. This oil refinery movement of ours, I repeat, is not a socialistic movement. It has the semblance of socialism, but its soul is that of competition.

"In my judgment Mr. Rockefeller, and I mention him merely in his representative character, is doing more to multiply socialists and make socialism popular than all the professional propagandists of that fascinating fallacy in the United States are doing. And the Standard Oil company is, in its essential character, the most gigantic socialistic concern in the country. Its aim and end is the aim and end of socialism, the destruction of competition, and in battling against it we are battling for and not against the competitive system and no superficial alarmists can convince us to the contrary."

CEREBRO-SPINAL MENINGITIS.

The Extraordinary Epidemic in New York City.

New York, March 20.—Cerebro-spinal meningitis, which has been so prevalent in New York during the winter, has claimed 386 lives since January 1. Most of the victims were children. Five have died every day for 11 weeks, as against one a day for the same period last year. It has been claimed that the cause of the epidemic is the filthy condition of some of the streets, on some of which snow and ice, relics of a big storm many weeks ago, is still lying. The health commissioner says the disease cannot be traced to the streets, its workings being so mysterious. "It is in the lower east side," the commissioner continued, "that the record of deaths is the greatest, yet, taking the average per 1,000, it is doubtful whether there is a higher death rate in the lower east side than in any other section of the city. The wave of deaths will practically increase until the first of April. Three weeks ago there were 48 deaths, two weeks ago there were 62 deaths, and last week there were 78 deaths. For the next two weeks the number is likely to increase materially."

Some physicians trace the epidemic to the condition of the streets. They say that the three steps are dirty streets, influenza and cerebro-spinal meningitis.

KILLED A WOMAN.

New York Fire Truck Ran Onto the Sidewalk.

New York, March 20.—An unidentified woman was killed, two children were slightly injured and several other persons narrowly escaped harm at 5th avenue and 116th street Saturday evening, when a ladder truck, responding to an alarm of fire, was forced, in avoiding a collision with another vehicle, to take to the sidewalk.

The woman was killed almost instantly, the three truck horses trampling upon her and the wheels passing over her body.

The driver of the truck was arrested on the technical charge of homicide, but was later paroled in the custody of his chief. The driver of the other vehicle was also arrested.

Death of Joab S. Northrop.

He is survived by a wife, formerly Miss Mary Hand, two daughters, and a son, one sister, Mrs. Mary MacArthur, of Waukegan, Ill. Mr. Northrop owned a farm which he cultivated for many years. Not long ago he retired and has been employed in the store of Harry L. Soule. He was one of the town auditors and had held other town offices.

Ninety-eight per cent of the people need a hair tonic. Don't take our word for it, but make a test for yourself—a test that you can see and understand. Pull a hair from your head, if the bulb is white and shrunken the hair is diseased; if the bulb is pink and full, it's healthy. Even if you have the most luxuriant head of hair you must want to know whether it is in an unhealthy condition or not. Don't wait until it begins to fall out or turn gray before you heed the warning that a white bulb gives—if the bulb is white the hair needs nourishment at once. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic was designed to destroy the germs that cause the shrunken bulb; it not only does this but it tones up the sebaceous glands and gives the hair a gloss that has never been equalled. It controls dandruff, and keeps the hair bright and clean.

In buying Rexall "93" Hair Tonic you take no chances. If, after a trial, you are not more than satisfied, we will cheerfully refund you the fifty cents you pay for a bottle.

"I DID NOT KILL THE WOMAN," SAYS WHITTIER

Divorced Husband of Slain Mrs. Fuller Held Without Bail, and Is Defiant When Questioned by the Police.

Lynn, March 20.—Seth K. Whittier, charged with the murder of Mrs. Susie A. Fuller, his former wife, has been taken to Salem Jail, and is held without bail to appear again in court on March 28.

"I did not kill her," he exclaimed to Chief of Police Burkes as he was being taken away. "Search as far as you want to find out anything you can about me. I tell you I didn't do it."

He was asked to explain certain things which the police wanted to know. "I won't," he said, defiantly. "You have brought this charge against me; you have said that I killed her. I say that I didn't kill her. It is up to you to prove me guilty; not for me to prove myself innocent."

The body of Mrs. Fuller was found at her home, 30 Irons street, Lynn, Friday morning. Death was due to a hemorrhage of the brain, caused by a blow on the left side of the head by a blunt instrument. The body was covered by bruises and abrasions. Both eyes were blackened and the arms and legs were a mass of bruises. It is believed that the woman was kicked and beaten. Whittier says when he entered Mrs. Fuller's room at 11 o'clock Friday night he found her dead. He went to bed and at 7 o'clock the next morning notified a lodger in the building that Mrs. Fuller was dead.

FOUGHT HIS CAPTORS.

William Stirling Brought Across Canadian Border to Face Charges.

Newport, March 20.—William Stirling, who has been living quietly in a small house by the side of Lake Memphremagog, just over the Canadian line, was arrested Friday after a fierce struggle by Detective Arthur Gendron of Magog, and taken to Sherbrooke. Several charges of burglary have been placed against him. Stirling was seldom seen away from his house, and was looked upon by those in the neighborhood as a poor but honest man.

During the past few months there has been an epidemic of burglaries in the villages near the lake, among those which have suffered being Georgeville, Millington and Sutton. Recently an unusually bold burglary was committed, and suspicion fell upon Stirling. He was traced to the house of John Ingalls at East Bolton, and an attempt was made to arrest him. He escaped, however, and went to his hut in the Memphremagog woods. At the Ingalls house a large amount of stolen goods was found.
